Practice Is The Best Preparation

On-Location Team and Leadership Development

If you want to run an in-person, on-location program for your team but you also want to be prudent, this is the perfect answer.

Nobody wants to risk a crowded hotel or conference center for now, but this is a special Simulation Venue in the VA countryside where both you and Team Results have full control.

You and your team will have exclusive use of 250-plus beautiful, rural acres and modern, well-prepared indoor spaces that are all yours - about an hour's drive from DC. Team Results is a high-end professional company and you can safely assume we're across all evolving CDC precautions, and are hyper-compliant with these - plus an additional safety margin.

If your team is working together in-person at all, or if they plan to, then there's no substitute for developing and rehearsing their teamwork and leadership in person. That's especially true when they can do a uniquely effective program at this special rural facility. Circumstances permitting, there's no substitute for the benefit of an expertly-run, in-person, on-location team and leadership program like Team Results Countryside.

In a Countryside Program, your team will be managing a simulated crisis and rehearsing key behaviors to create practice, rehearsal, real benefit, new friendships and laughter - and to focus on the business outcomes you tell us are important. The project is worthy of adults, and our expertise in designing unique scenarios keeps it exciting. These are the programs that made us famous and on which we built our name.

PowerPoint presentations, lectures and team-building games do not prepare people for leadership. Only practice and rehearsal does that. Top organizations like IBM, Pfizer, Toyota, DHS, the FDA, the State Department and many others have relied on Team Results for these benefits for years.

Every Countryside Program begins with Team Results asking you what your desired work outcomes should be. Once we know what team behaviors you are seeking to promote, you'll get a tailored proposal for your possible approval. Some typical benefits include:

- Rehearsal and practice of real-world teaming strategies, all done in a secluded environment;
- Practical trial, recalibration and retrieval of team rhythm and team behaviors needed from now on;
- Fast and comprehensive rehearsal for a large number of teaming situations in a simulated environment with only simulated consequences.

All Team Results programs are based on Simulation, using the same proprietary techniques and systems which Team Results has offered to major clients since 1996. This method of leadership training reinforces real personal leadership strategies that generate success, combines accelerated learning with fun and laughter, and is supported by modern group learning and team neurodynamic research in which Team Results is a leader in partnership with UCLA.

Content and Syllabus

The team will manage a simulated crisis, spending about half the time indoors and half outdoors. The exact duration and syllabus will depend on your needs.
